SPLITTERS CREEK NURSERY - ACCESS DRIVEWAY CONCEPT DESIGN

Project Background

Spotto Consulting completed a concept design for a site on the Riverina Highway at Splitters Creek, west of Albury.

The site had approval to be developed as a nursery, with an upgrade required to the site access from the highway.

The client was seeking a concept design to enable a cost estimate of the works to be prepared. The concept design was also to be submitted to Council for approval under current standards.

The Spotto Consulting Approach

It was important to ensure that the access driveway was designed to current standards, as some time had elapsed since the original approval had been issued. It was also important that the design be completed and approved in a cost-effective manner.

Our approach focussed on preparing a concept design using aerial photography and computer-aided design, rather than a detailed survey, in order to minimise time and cost. We also prepared a brief report to accompany the submission to Council, to demonstrate that all elements of the design (including lane configurations and dimensions) met current standards.

The Outcome

Spotto Consulting's concept design and report that accompanied the submission to Council were well-received, and the application was approved. The client was able to obtain an estimate of the works, allowing the driveway works to be planned and budgeted as part of the development overall.
